Does thy Light Shine, Brother?
I pray, is your lamp burning my brother?
I pray you look quickly and see,
For it is burning, then surely
Some beams would fall brightly on me.
Slight, straight is the rod, but I father,
And off and on by the way,
Then lift your lamp higher, my brother,
Let it should make fatal delay.
There are many and many around you,
Who follow wherever you go,
If you thought they were in a shadow,
Your lamp would burn brighter you know.
Upon the dark mountains they stumble,
They are blinded on the rocks, and they lie
With their white, gleaming faces turned upward
To the clouds of the pitiful sky.
There is many a lamp that is lighted,
We hold them there and we hold them there,
But not many of them, my brother,
Shine steadily on, like a star.
I think, were they trimmed night and morning,
They would burn down as we do now,
Though from the four quarters of heaven,
The winds were all blowing about.
If once all the lamps that are lighted
Should steadily blaze in a line,
Wide over the land and the ocean,
What a guide of glory would shine!
How all the dark places would brighten?
How the mist would roll up and away?
How the earth would laugh in its gladness?
To hail the millennium day?
May, is your lamp burning my brother?
I pray you look quickly and see,
For it is burning, then surely,
Some beams would fall brightly upon me.

VARIETY.
THE SHIP WHICH THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH HAS NOW GIVEN UP.—The Courtship.
Why is a man's brewery like the well of the Israelites?—Because he never drinks there.
"Birdie" is what a young husband fondly calls his wife, because she is always associated in his mind with a bill.
The man whose hair turned white in a single night is surprised by the Boston girl who lost hers completely in one dance.
A chicken in Taberg came from the shell recently with two bills. We are happy to know it is dead. There are too many bills in the world now.
MIST HAVE YEARNED.—The Chicago Tribune
prints a poem in which the writer wishes that he had a heart full of sweet yearning. The persecuted author must have yearned to fumble among that compositor's hair.
A Chinese proverb says that "The less happy on earth, one must be in Soochow, live in Canton, and die in Lanchow; for in the first are the happiest women, in the second the richest luxuries, and in the third the best coffee." EFFECT OF THE MARRIAGE.—Bookkeeper: "Will you these volumes bound in Russia or Morocco, sir?" Retired Coal-dealer: "Well, if I can't have 'em bound in London, send 'em to Russia. I must encourage that Czar now, you know?"
An Englishman, visiting the White Mountains, complained of the excessive hilliness of the country in all that region, whereupon the Yankee stage-driver remarked, "Wah, yes, we know too much land to the acre about here, and so we have to stack it!"
AWFUL EXAMPLE.—Enter to Mr. Punch, who is writing his hardest for the evening post, a so-called friend, who is simply on the lounge.
Friend: "Ah, my boy, how are you? Nearly five o'clock. How the days get out!" Mr.
Punch: "Imitate them." Exit friend.
TRICKED HER.—A very bad little boy in Dubuque rubbed cayenne pepper dust all over the back of his jacket, and then did shamefully to school.
The school m'arn thrashed him brisly, but dismissed school immediately, to run to the nearest drug-store for eye-salve.
ANTHONY.—A young lady who entered a Broadway music store, and asked the young man in attendance, "Have you Happy Dreams?" The assistant answered, "No, ma'am; I was astonished when he replied, 'No, ma'am; I'm mostly troubled with the nightmare.' He didn't know why she went out so hurriedly and slammed the store-door after her.
THE FIRST STEP.—The New York Almanac says: "Poor, but dishonest young boys, fatten wrought nails to the end of strings, and harpoon sweet potatoes and apples from their abiding places in front of the stores. This may be considered sport, but it is the first step on the downward road to Congress." WARRANTED.—A Western paper says that the way to kill off the poets who ought to write pieces gratuitously to accept their efforts, had them to the worst compositor and let the proof-reader correct them according to his own ideas of pros-ody. This is warranted to destroy the strongest poetical fever in three weeks.
ALWAYS.—A Visalia man, who dyes his hair and occasionally visits Mussel Slough on "business," was down there a week or two since, when a lady acquaintance remarked, "Why, Charles, how gray your hair has turned since you were here last." "Yes," said Charles, "I was sick a few days after I was here, and my hair always turns when I have a fit of sickness."
"An effeminate man," says a recent writer, "is a weak poltice. He is a cross between table-saw and ginger-pop with the cork left out; a fresh-water mermaid found in a cow-pasture with her hands filled with dandelions. He is a teacup filled with syllabub; a kitten in trousers; a sick monkey with a blonde moustache. He is a vine without any tendrils; a fly drowned in oil; a paper kite in a dead calm. He lives like a butterfly—nobody can tell why. He is as harmless as a slip-button without a hole. He is as lazy as a shut-out, and has no more hope than last year's may-weed. He goes through life on tiptoe, and dies like Cologne water spit over the ground."

How an INSURANCE AGENT WAS BEATEN.—Between Kenosha and Milwaukee, says a Wisconsin paper, an insurance agent entered a car, and having issued tickets to several of the passengers, approached an elderly lady, who, it afterwards appeared, was deaf.
"Madam, would you like to insure against accident?" inquired the agent.
"I'm going to Oshkosh to visit my darter, who is married up there and has got a baby."
The agent raised his voice a little.
"Would you like to insure your life against accident?"
"She's married two years and a half. It's a good thing, still louder:
"I'm an insurance agent, madam; don't you want your life insured against accident?"
"Oh! I didn't understand you," said the old lady. "No, her name is Johnson; my name is Evans, and I live five miles from Kenosha."
The agent vanished.
